

How we celebrated the World Values Day on Október 17th 2024 in Hungary

The aim of the Living Values activities this year were exactly on the theme of WVD this year: bringing values to life. What we did, was to create different ways to show that for ourselves and for others.

Kando Primary School has a very enthusiastic English teacher, who always does something with her pupils for the WVD, which is a very good way to introduce the children the values within them. In 2024 she involved 3 classes in this project. The topics were different:

1. Community building/ Extend your hand (to make their relationships stronger, especially with new students). Everyone drew their hand on a paper and wrote their two favorite activities in it. They put their “hands” on the wall and anyone could join that activity by writing their name there. Class 4.

'Extend your Hand' - Kando Primary School, class 4

2. Positivity (to make children to change their attitude to any subject). They have chosen who writes a motivational card to whom. Most of the children have kept his/her card to inspire himself/herself. Class 7.
3. Create a mini-poster with 5 values (which each one would like to bring in life). Most of them have chosen; love, respect, friendship, honesty. It's not by chance. Class 8.

'Values' mini posters - Kando Primary School, class 8

The parents appreciated the teacher's initiative very much, to help children to spend their time with such useful tasks.

Creative Thoughts Club (Komló) They started the project in spring time. 5 values were chosen (peace, respect, freedom, honesty, cooperation), which they wanted to know more about in detail to bring them to life in their individual lives. Everyone created a workbook to note down their observations and experiences with the different values, plus their answers to the next questions.

- What did you learn about yourself while processing the value?
- What are you taking with you?
- What do you incorporate into your life?

Every workshop (every second week) was meaningful and empowering, cheerful and touching. In the same time they learnt a lot about themselves and others as well. After this project they believe much more in their own values.

'Creative Thoughts' workbook 'Mapping their own values' at Creative Thoughts Club, Komló

Community Centre ÉRD, workshops for elderly people, were held once a month. They studied values for WVD; especially peace, love, self-respect and responsibility. After all these workshops they finished with a quiz, where they could give answers for questions about the 12 values which are the basis of LVE. By the questions they got a chance to learn more about themselves. Every meeting gave everyone many new insights and recognitions.

Filling in the quiz about values , Community Centre Érd

Community Centre (Dési Huber) Budapest, workshops for two groups (for parents and elderly people). They also started the project springtime. After every workshop they got or gave themselves homework which was in connection with the studied value, to practice. At the end they also filled the quiz and they had special homework to write down what they have noticed about their progress for using values in their life. From time to time it's very important to stop and see how far we have progressed, and what we should do ourselves for our benefit. What I can give others is my presence, my stage, nothing else.

Our last special event was in 2024 an exhibition in Dési Huber Community Centre about our activities for WVD in 2023. About experiences from people who sent them us to post up on our facebook page. The opening took place on November 30, 2024. It can be visited till March 15. 2025.

Here is the link about a very short video made after the inauguration of the exhibition.

<https://youtu.be/iDDfD3f1s0I>

Bringing Values to Life Challenge for 100 days campaign There are a few pictures from the exhibition

From the team, who organized the WVD activities and the exhibition.

BELSŐ ÉRTÉKEINKET
KIBONTAKOZTATÓ EGYESÜLET